

Development of FXR Specific Ligands and Computer Aided Drug Design

Raok Jeon^o

College of Pharmacy, Sookmyung Women's University
Chungpa-Dong, Yongsan-Ku, Seoul 140-742, Korea

Development of FXR (farnesoid X-activated receptor) specific ligands, which are able to control mevalonate pathway has been launched. A preliminary lead was obtained through the screening of a set of library compounds and then modification of the lead was performed. In addition, fishing a new pharmacophore was tried by UNITY search, which brought new structural features.